Re: Freedom of Information Act application

In reference to your application made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act 1991 (FOI Act), access was sought to:

“a) Since the introduction of mobile phone cameras how many expiation notices have been issued to drivers b) how many have been disputed and elected to be prosecuted c) how many prosecutions have been undertaken after challenges to the evidence”

In relation to the following part of your application:

SAPOL does not hold a document that is readily available. Producing such a document would require manual compilation and analysis of publicly accessible datasets, which can be found at: Expiation Notice System Data - Dataset - data.sa.gov.au. Accordingly, no documents exist for this part of your request.”

In relation to the following parts of your application:

c) how many prosecutions have been undertaken after challenges to the evidence”

SAPOL holds data in relation to this part of your request and agree to release this in full.

Since mobile phone detection camera (MPDC) offences became eligible for prosecution in court, SAPOL has laid 548 charges. The issuing of expiation notices for this offence commenced on the 23rd of September 2024.
