Arrest of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders

Whenever an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person is arrested, the arresting member/delegate shall be responsible for ensuring the detainee is provided with a copy of the printed information from the Aboriginal Legal Rights Movement (ALRM) and notify that organisation. When the detainee does not want to provide their personal details to the ALRM, notify the ALRM that an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander has been arrested but do not provide that detainee's details.

The ALRM employs several Aboriginal field officers who are issued with an identification card, which includes their name, photograph and signature. A member must give them every opportunity to assist a person who has been arrested. The function of an Aboriginal field officer is to initiate the provision of legal services to any Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander in custody who requires their assistance.

A member must allow the Aboriginal field officer to have access to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander detainees for the following purposes:

- to obtain adequate details to notify the detainee's friends or relatives of the situation and/or to initiate arrangements for bail or legal assistance
- to make arrangements for an interpreter, either during investigation or court proceedings, when required
- to be present at any interview or investigation pursuant to section 79(a) of the Summary Offences Act 1953, providing the detainee agrees.

Refer to General Order, Custody management relevant to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander detainees.
