CONSIDERATIONS

Considerations:-

The Commissioner of Police (or his delegate) will consider the following when making a determination to release a vehicle early:

- public safety if vehicle is released early;
- the seriousness of the alleged offending;
- history of alleged offending (that is, both motor vehicle history and alleged offender history);
- likelihood the motor vehicle would be used in the commission of further offences;
- medical grounds (for example, the motor vehicle is essential for transport on medical grounds);
- business circumstances (for example, the motor vehicle is essential to the income generation of a business entity);
- employment or loss of income (for example, the financial impact on other persons, family);
- any other reasonable grounds including but not limited to:
 - accessibility to public transport;
 - number of person's dependent upon the motor vehicle;
 - isolation from essential services;
 - significant impact on a person regarding their education;
 - employment or unemployment;
 - involvement in community events and services;
 - involvement in recreational activities;
 - involvement with approved clubs that are affiliated with approved associations, and
 - family care situations, including care of dependants.
- nature of any impact on another person not directly involved in the alleged offending; and
- any other relevant consideration.
